Historical

MORE than a quarter of a century ago, when the State of Virginia, now famed for its many excellent schools, could boast of but few preparatory schools, the Augusta Military Academy was founded to supply the needs of the young men in and around Augusta County. The Augusta Male Academy, as it was then known, was a success from its incipiency, and from a day school with a few boarding students, it rapidly developed into a boarding school with representatives from adjoining states. Many of the alumni of the original Augusta Male Academy hold to-day enviable positions in the business and professional world, and their regard for, and loyalty to, the school have been largely instrumental in placing the Augusta Military Academy of to-day among the foremost schools of Virginia.

The Academy saw the dawn of life in a small brick building then situated in the grove of the Old Stone Church, about 300 yards from the present site. The increasing demands soon called for greater accommodations, and the grounds, comprising sixteen acres, were acquired, on which were erected dormitories and later a large academic hall. Year by year saw a constant increase, not only in better facilities, but also in greater and more extended patronage.

In 1906, the founder and owner, Chas. S. Roller, owing to ill health, retired from active service and Thos. J. Roller and Chas. S. Roller, Jr., assumed control. Under their régime, the Augusta Military Academy has kept pace with the times, both as to improvements and a higher educational standard.

To give the cadets every opportunity for mental and physical development, an academic hall and gymnasium have recently been constructed and a modern fireproof barracks was completed in 1916. The addition of this building, costing eighty thousand dollars, to the present plant will put the Augusta Military Academy in the forefront of the Southern preparatory schools. The Academy will still maintain a limited number, regardless of facilities, as our aim is not to be "the biggest but the best school in the South."

The enrolment of the past few years has been 300, with boys from thirty states, Mexico, Central America, and Porto Rico.

With an enviable record behind it, the school looks forward to a greater future, ever striving for a higher degree of efficiency and ever keeping before it the knowledge that the school has in its hands in a large measure the molding of character, the success or failure of our young men, upon whom will rest the welfare of our great republic.

It is character that counts in nations as individuals.
Only in loyalty to the old can we serve the new;
only in understanding of the past can we interpret and use the present; for history is not made but unfolded.

Object of the School

THE object of the school is to prepare boys for our universities, Virginia Military Institute, or other high schools of learning, or to fit them for immediate entrance upon the duties and responsibilities of life.

The Principals, with an experience of many years' teaching, assisted by gentlemen selected for their special qualifications in the departments to which they are assigned, feel that they are able to offer opportunities for a superior education at rates less than those charged at other schools of like grade.

Instruction is given chiefly by text-books in connection with lectures, and contemplates a thorough acquaintance with, and a practical knowledge of, the various subjects taught. Principles are sought to be mastered, and habits of industry and accuracy sedulously inculcated.

Standard and Character

The Academy has, from its existence, enjoyed the reputation of high moral character. Should any pupil, after a fair trial, prove incorrigibly vicious and without a sense of honor, he will be promptly expelled, as his retention would be injurious to the school; but where the pupil is only self-willed, self-indulgent, and indolent—faults too often due to improper home training—the Principals will cheerfully and zealously undertake so to win the boy's confidence, foster his self-respect, and appeal to his better instincts and noble nature, that the comparatively "bad boy" may develop into a man with such capacities as will render him an honor to himself and a blessing to his race.

Method

The Augusta Military Academy is neither a loafing place nor a tread mill. The Principals are men of long experience, who have made teaching and the study of boys their life work. The rules they have adopted are the result of that experience and study. Unreasonable harshness breeds rebellion; careless laxity produces contempt. Reasonable rules and measures of discipline are used, but implicit obedience to them is required. While the cadets are always under supervision, no system of espionage is tolerated.

Every boy is put upon his honor and trusted as a gentleman until he proves himself unworthy of such treatment. In that case he is sent home. Every effort is made to inculcate high moral ideals into our boys, to teach them to despise "sham and cant," not to avoid just responsibility because it may entail punishment, nor to shirk duty because it may be irksome or unpleasant.

On Choosing a School

The first thing that should interest a parent in choosing a school is its location as to healthfulness. A cultured mind and a sickly body make a poor combination. A boy whose health is impaired at the training school is shut off from a college career and from a promise of success in any career. The Augusta Military Academy can promise as near a perfect security in the matter of health as can be offered anywhere.

The famous Shenandoah Valley is proverbially healthful. Every student is required to take daily exercise in drill. In addition, all kinds of outdoor sports are indulged in.

The gymnasium contains a large, circular running track, swimming-pool, etc.

The food furnished is well cooked, and chosen with special reference to wholesomeness. The Academy's farm supplies vegetables in season, beef, and pork. A local dairy furnishes the school with 60 gallons daily of pure, fresh milk.

The next important question is as to the moral atmosphere. Every effort is made to keep this pure. This school is not a reformatory, and bad boys will not be accepted.

INTERIOR OF QUADRANGLE

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

The teachers contribute very largely to the success of any school. It should suffice to say that every teacher is a graduate from a college of high standing, and possesses the faculty, not only to teach, but also to win the respect and admiration of the students.

Some Important Features

The Principals feel encouraged to ask the continued support of the public, because their institution, established forty-six years ago, has been steadily increasing in the fair name and reputation it has always enjoyed; because it is located in one of the most beautiful sections of the Shenandoah Valley, 1,300 feet above sea level, amid an intelligent and refined community, remote from the pernicious and demoralizing influences incident more or less to town or city; because away from barrooms, billiard rooms, the thronged streets, and the other allurements that tempt the boy from his books, it is not so difficult for him to apply his mind and time to study and keep within the bounds of rectitude and morality; because the pupils of this school have entered without difficulty the Senior classes of even the University of Virginia; because its charges are less than those of any other Virginia school of like grade and the same educational advantages.

Our Teachers

The corps of teachers will consist of college men who will cultivate an intimate relation and establish a close juxtaposition with their pupils, both in the schoolroom and on the playground, who will toil with them in their studies, and will seek health and mental recreation with them in their play, who are ready to assume the rôle of being their exemplars, without fear of incurring by their own lives and conduct the contempt and scorn of those they would lead and instruct.

System of Work

Believing that study, like other work, is rendered more pleasant and profitable when systematically pursued, we endeavor to utilize the pupil's time and to further his interest by a methodical arrangement of all his hours. The call to work and duty must be observed with the same promptness and alacrity as is the dismissal for play and recreation.

Ten hours, properly divided, out of every twenty-four, are devoted to zealous, earnest labor in the schoolroom. The pupils prepare each day's lessons with the assistance of the teachers, and are thus encouraged and enabled to make satisfactory recitations, and in this way the boy of ordinary capacity, if he be studious and industrious, may outstrip those of even the more brilliant talents.

The Kind of Boys We Want

We desire to welcome boys who are imbued with manly hopes and ambitions. Augusta Military Academy is primarily a school for gentlemen's sons. We want only boys who will apply themselves studiously during work hours; who will play heartily during recreation hours; boys who will at all times be high-toned, courteous gentlemen. With such material it is a teacher's greatest pleasure to reach the boys and instill ideals and principles that may guide them through life. The teachers enter into all the interests of the boys and seek to develop the very best that is in them.

Self-Government

Self-government is the best of all governments in the junior republics, as well as in the great ones. So far as possible, then, we try to foster this expression of the principles that we inculcate. We believe the American boys need a stronger and more refined system of self-government than other boys. Often they are more indulged at home, and, as a whole, are rather less tractable.

Hence we have adopted the military system, with its steady regularity and impartiality, its wide room for gradation of responsibilities, and its traditions of fidelity to honor. We hope to trace its permanent influence in the after careers of our cadets, and to prove that an esprit de corps in a school life is of priceless value. In maintaining the hold over boys, we place the greatest dependence upon the close touch and cordial relations between teacher and pupil; the master insisting on a firm, dignified, and systematic classroom discipline, the pupil showing proper obedience and deference.

Honor System

Our transactions with the boys are based on the honor system, and when we are confronted with the reality that a boy has broken his trust, and that his disposition is to rebel against the more honorable way, we are compelled to dismiss him, though not until he has been given a fair test.

Home Life

We strictly insist that the home life of the Academy is one of our best and leading features.

This is hardly possible in schools of such large numbers, where individual attention and close relationship are practically out of the question, and in such cases a boy soon feels that he is simply "one among many."

With us, the teachers are able to cultivate an intimate association and acquaintance with each boy, and he is made to feel that a personal interest is taken in his welfare and progress.

The teachers take their meals with the cadets, which fact should be sufficient evidence that all are well provided for.

Health

The health of the boys is one of our first considerations. Every precaution is taken to prevent carelessness and indiscretion in their dress, from which sickness often results. Plenty of exercise in the open air, excellent water, wholesome food, and systematic work, will produce wonderful results with any boy.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

We are situated in one of the most healthful sections of the famous Shenandoah Valley, where malaria and chills and fever are unknown. The Academy has its own water system, and pure, fresh water is convenient to all the rooms.

In case of sickness the cadet will receive the prompt attention of the school physician, and parents may rest assured that they will be promptly notified as to the welfare and condition of their sons.

Our cadets are not confined to a city block or street, but have the advantage of 300 acres, which afford ample space for all their sports.

Fort Defiance, Virginia

No institution of learning has a more desirable location than this. It is pleasantly situated, 1,300 feet above sea level, in one of the most beautiful and healthful sections of the Valley of Virginia, remote from any town, thus affording to the parents a guarantee that their son is not exposed to the pernicious influences which are necessarily more or less incident to all towns and cities. It is easy of access, being within one-third of a mile from Fort Defiance depot, on the Valley Railroad, which has three trains daily, both north and south, and immediately on the Valley turnpike, nine (9) miles from Staunton.

A telephone office at the Academy gives us speedy communication with our patrons, should occasion demand it. The neighborhood is one of the best in the State, and our cadets have the advantage of unusually refined and intelligent associations.

Admission

No special examination is required, and pupils as young as fourteen years of age are received into the Academy.

Boys are admitted at any time during the school year, but it is urgently desired that they be entered at the opening of the session, in order that they may begin work with the regular classes. Too often boys are allowed to enter school after the work has begun, and they find it discouraging to take up the classes they would ordinarily suit. We would request our patrons to bear this in mind, for neither school nor boy can meet the requirements when a month or more of valuable time has been lost.

OLD STONE CHURCH

The school is by no means a reformatory and a boy of confirmed bad habits can not remain in the school, and we would prefer no boy to enter who does not intend to be a gentleman.

A Word to Parents

Sending your boy off to school is a matter of grave importance, as well as one of apprehension. In the first instance, the average boy when left to his own resources will gradually assert that element of manhood which is so needful in taking care of himself and which commands the respect and admiration of his companions. At home a boy may have nearly all the admirable characteristics, yet there is lacking just some one thing which prevents his being an ideal, manly man—and that one thing is the knowledge of being a man among men. He must get out from under the home ties to acquire this gift, and it comes very near being a divine gift. Learning to think for himself, to act for himself, and being true to himself, are three great lessons that he must and will learn. We assume that every boy is a gentleman before he reaches us, and we only endeavor to impress upon him each day those principles and teachings which he began to learn from childhood. We strive to return your boy to you just as honest and pure as when he came to us. School life affords the opportunity to a boy to make a practical test of the many good lessons learned at home, and it also lays bare the folly of "sham and cant"; our men of to-day are only boys grown up, and what they are and do can be traced back to what they were and did in school life.

Our rules are based upon long experience and knowledge of boys. We know they are just and for the boy's best interest. We solicit and expect active coöperation of every parent to secure the desired results. Do not write your boy permission to do anything or to go anywhere without first advising with us, as we have experienced some trouble in the past by parents granting permission when the school authorities deem it best to refuse. Consider this fact—we are “on the grounds” and have two hundred and sixty boys to handle, while you are absent and are considering the case of only one boy, your son. We try to act with absolute impartiality, but we find it difficult to do this when parents “assume the responsibility.”

We do not seek a promiscuous patronage, and we repeat that we do not conduct a reform school in any sense of the word. If your boy is unwilling to give obedience to our regulations and to deport himself in an honorable manner, we do not desire him. Of course, we are broad enough to expect a certain amount of innocent mischief and breach of regulations which do not reflect upon the character and standing of the boy. He is punished for these offenses and takes his punishment like a man.

Your son will be exposed here to some temptations—learning to smoke, for instance. He would have even greater temptations in the city and in larger schools, where there can not be exercised the same individual attention as in the smaller schools. If your boy wants to learn to smoke he will find the way regardless of rules and precepts. The same law follows in case of other habits and vices. The average boy who “goes wrong” has a dozen reasons why he should not and only one why he should, and that may be either the desire or bad companions. The latter are never necessary to any boy’s happiness, so most of the downfalls can be traced back to the boy’s own election.

We do not promise to do the impossible, but we do assure the parents that their son will have every means known to us that his life here may be one of profit intellectually, morally, and physically.

THE COLORS

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Moral and Religious Influences

The Academy is situated within two hundred yards of the Old Augusta Church, in which religious services are held every Sabbath, and which students are required to attend unless excused on account of sickness. The school pastor conducts classes in Biblical history and gives such religious instruction as may be deemed proper in a school that is strictly non-sectarian. But while non-sectarian in the matter of creed, we use every means in our power to teach high moral and religious ideals. We believe a strong character to be the first requisite to a well-rounded manhood, and to develop this is our first aim. There is thrown around the cadets every possible influence which will make for courage, honesty, truthfulness, a sense of honor, and a reverence for sacred things.

A boy who proves to be of bad moral influence will not be retained in the school, for we do not believe that we have the right to risk harming a hundred good boys in our efforts to save one bad one.

Y. M. C. A.

A Young Men's Christian Association exists among the cadets, with eighty per cent of the school as members. Religious meetings are held regularly, and much enthusiasm is evinced throughout the session. The Association is in the hands of the older and more experienced cadets, though the teachers are members and attend the meetings.

Barracks

The barracks are built of steel and concrete, the only wood being the doors and windows. The cadets' quarters are ample in size, neat and comfortable, yet thoroughly military and sanitary. Only two cadets occupy a room and each cadet has his individual table, closet, shelf, light, and bed. Every room opens out on a porch, as the barracks are arranged in a quadrangle, and every room has perfect ventilation. A separate wing of the barracks is designed especially for the younger boys, who will be under the care of two instructors, thus avoiding the older classes as much as possible.

The extensiveness of the new barracks permits of a post-office, band-room, laundry-lockers, trunk-room, and various other conveniences necessary in a well-regulated military school.

All the buildings are heated by the most improved system from a central heating plant, and there is an abundance of pure spring water which is fed by gravity to every part of the buildings. Seven drinking fountains have been installed on the various porches as a sanitary precaution. Besides having its own electric plant, the Academy is connected with a local company, which insures constant service, and we frankly believe that few city schools can boast of more modern conveniences and appliances, and we have the advantage of a country location with all city improvements. An automobile transfer line and six daily trains give us almost hourly connections with Staunton and other points.

Grounds

The Academy owns 300 acres, on which there are the farm and a beautiful athletic field and drill ground. Every facility for tennis, baseball, and football is afforded, as we hope to develop the body as well as the mind.

During the past several years the school has spent more than five thousand dollars on the parade ground and athletic field with this end in view, that all military manoeuvres with four companies of cadets could be performed on an absolutely level plot of ground. The athletic field has a one per cent grade, which is sufficient for drainage, and yet it is apparently perfectly level.

Gymnasium and Study Hall

The building is an unique one of its kind, containing not only elaborately equipped classrooms, but also, in the third story, a splendid gymnasium and dancing hall, and on the lowest floor a swimming-pool, shower-baths, a hundred lockers, etc.

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Around and above the gymnasium floor is the running track (22 laps to the mile), where indoor work is held during bad weather.

The entire interior of the building is beautifully finished in yellow pine carefully selected and ordered from various Southern states, and abundant light is furnished by the most modern electric equipment.

The Fare

The Academy has its own farm of three hundred acres, where vegetables and fruit are grown and stock is kept for the school use. In fact, it may be said that the food, the surroundings, the regular, cheerful, and outdoor life at the school soon make the delicate boy robust and strong.

The School Bank

The Academy conducts a bank which is controlled by Colonel Roller and maintained entirely for the convenience of the cadets. Here all checks are cashed, transportation purchased, etc. Cadets deposit their money at any time, and thus loss and foolish spending are obviated in a great measure. Banking hours are held once a week, and checks are used which are good only at the school bank. This banking system has largely solved the question of wasting money, as parents can not always know whether an article is necessary or not, while a deposit in the school bank puts us in charge of the situation.

Discipline

In order to secure efficient and rapid progress in study, the most thorough discipline will be maintained. This is mainly secured by cultivating the pupil's self-respect, winning his esteem, appealing to a nice sense of honor, that we endeavor to engender in his mind, and by constantly keeping before him the imperative necessity of maintaining an honorable standing in class and a correct and gentlemanly deportment both in and out of school.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Sport and recreation at proper hours are encouraged by the instructors, but industrious and energetic application to books is insisted upon as a paramount duty and the chief object of a cadet's life. When persuasion, encouragement, appeals, and abridgment of play hours prove ineffectual to secure the proper performance of duty, the pupil will be dismissed from the school, in order to prevent his example being prejudicial to his associates.

Incentives to Study

Diligence is secured by encouragement and commendation, and, when these fail, resort is had to demerits and penalties. A system of strict and impartial marking at recitations is practiced, and the names of those whose class standing is satisfactory are read out monthly in open school. Reports candidly exhibiting the progress and conduct of students are submitted monthly to the parent or guardian.

Literary Society

A Literary Society, for the practice of debate, elocution and declamation, exists among the students, and its exercises have been conducted greatly to the improvement of its members. Its meetings are held under the supervision of Major Roller.

Scholarships

(University of Virginia)

(1) The University of Virginia, under specified conditions, offers a scholarship exempting the recipient, if he be a Virginian, from the payment of matriculation fees and, if he be from any other state, from the payment of tuition fees in the academic department of the University.

Cadets desiring to compete for the above scholarship must be in the Senior Classes, and they will receive special instructions relative to the examinations submitted to us by the University.

The cadet receiving the highest average on the examinations shall receive the scholarship.

CADET OFFICERS

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

(Virginia Military Institute)

(2) A scholarship, valued at $75.00, is offered by the Virginia Military Institute to the cadet considered to be the most worthy of it by the Principals.

(Washington and Lee University)

(3) To that member of the Senior Class of the Academy who shall receive the highest average in no fewer than three Senior and one Intermediate study (average not less than 90 per cent) shall be awarded the scholarship offered by the Washington and Lee University, which entitles the recipient to free instruction in any branch of the academic department.

(Hampden-Sidney College)

(4) To that member of the Senior Class of the Academy who shall receive the highest average in no fewer than three Senior and one Intermediate study (average not less than 90 per cent) shall be awarded the scholarship offered by Hampden-Sidney College, which entitles the recipient to free instruction in any branch of the academic department.

(Davis-Elkins College)

(5) To that member of the Senior Class of the Academy who shall receive the highest average in no fewer than three Senior and one Intermediate study, shall be awarded the Scholarship offered by Davis-Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va., which entitles the recipient to free instruction in any branch of the academic department.

(Davidson College)

(6) This scholarship is worth $75.00 to the recipient, who must be a member of the Senior Class.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Reports

A candid report of each cadet, stating the progress, conduct, number of demerits, etc., will be sent to his parents every month. This report is not simply a matter of form, and should not be so regarded by the parent. If your boy is not proving satisfactory, write to him and to us, especially to him, for we know when a report is satisfactory or not, and, perhaps, have used every effort with your boy; therefore, let him know it if you are disappointed, as well as let him know it if you are pleased with his work.

Too often parents seemingly lose interest in the education of their children and leave it all to the school. This is a mistake, and we particularly desire the parents to keep in close touch with the advancement and work of their sons.

Library

The cadets have constant access to a library equipped with all the necessary books for reference in their work, as well as affording an abundant supply of good reading.

We consider this an essential feature to any school, for, if the proper literature is always at hand, and boys are encouraged to read good books, their taste will be cultivated above the class of cheap and injurious novels for which so often young minds evince a fondness.

A number of papers and magazines will always be found in the reading room, where the cadets are allowed to assemble under certain restrictions.

The Bayonet

This is a monthly magazine published solely by the cadets and devoted entirely to the interests of the school.

The results of this publication are most beneficial, as it encourages those of literary inclination and inspires others to an effort that otherwise they would not make.

Another important feature of The Bayonet is that it keeps the alumni in closer touch with the progress of the Academy.

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Sports

Life in school is not simply a preparation for something to come later. It is life in a very intense form. No greater mistake can be made than to suppose that any vigorous, forceful, real boy can be best developed by making of him a bookworm for a few years, without giving him the chance to satisfy his perfectly normal and legitimate appetite for pleasure. Other things being equal, that school which does most for a boy's pleasure secures the best hold upon his esteem and affections and thus is able to develop him most advantageously. The Principals of Augusta Military Academy have provided for the cadets facilities for almost every kind of athletic exercise. Members of the faculty, under the supervision of Major Roller, have charge of the football, basket-ball, baseball and track teams. In addition, cadets have access to a tennis court and swimming-pool.

Our motto is "A Sound Mind in a Sound Body," but no cadet, however, who is notably deficient in his school work can be a member of any of the athletic teams

Holidays

The Academy has always been opposed to promiscuous or extensive holidays, and we would urgently request our patrons not to infringe upon this rule. A holiday of two weeks is granted for the Christmas vacation and also one day at Thanksgiving and one day at Easter. The Principals feel that they are held responsible for the progress and advancement of the boys entrusted to their care, and they fully realize the distraction of a few days' vacation, which means not only absence from duties but a general cessation of all military and academic regulations. Furthermore, we have three hundred boys to deal with, and what is granted to one should be granted to all, as we endeavor to treat all boys alike. Matters are frequently made very difficult for us when patrons insist upon our granting a special furlough in their case, and, therefore, we would advise their writing to the Principals before giving their permission to their sons for any leave of absence.

Medical Attention

The school has its own infirmary, which is in the charge of a trained nurse, and any cadet who may be indisposed is at once sent to the infirmary either for medicine or treatment. The school physician visits the infirmary each day, and a close watch is kept over all the cadets who may be sick. The physician makes a physical examination of every cadet on arrival, and a complete chart of every boy is kept and held for comparison at the close of the session.

A small charge is made at the infirmary to cover medicines, dressings, etc., but the school physician renders his statements independent of the school. We know the physician's charges are reasonable, and for this reason we have not established a fixed medical fee, as now many boys go through the entire year without any medical expense, whereas, in case of such a fixed charge, boys would be tempted to imagine themselves ill because they would feel that "they were entitled to a certain amount of sickness." We have observed carefully both customs and have adopted the present system.

Limited Numbers

The school is limited in number, as we believe it to be a physical impossibility to give a large number of young boys the proper supervision and personal attention, the lack of which is exceedingly disastrous.

Graduation Requirements

To meet the demands of the various universities that require a diploma of graduation before admitting a candidate, we have recently established a course leading to graduation. This course comprises the following subjects:

How to Reach Fort Defiance, Va.

From all points north of Washington, railroad tickets should be purchased to Staunton, Va., via Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

Ample accommodations can be found in Staunton for parties arriving at night. The Baltimore & Ohio has several morning trains to Fort Defiance which is only eight miles distant. In addition there are several automobile lines running from Staunton through Fort Defiance.

From southern points, the best routes are via Richmond or Charlottesville, Va., to Staunton. Boys from the West should secure tickets via Chesapeake & Ohio to Staunton and Baltimore & Ohio to Fort Defiance.

Where possible, it is very desirable that all baggage be checked to Fort Defiance, Va., and not to Staunton, Va.

Boys from Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Wheeling, etc., should come via Baltimore & Ohio through Harper's Ferry, W. Va., and then take the branch line of the Baltimore & Ohio to Fort Defiance, arriving here at 4:20 P. M.

Military Department

RACTICAL instruction in military evolution is given by members of the faculty educated at the Virginia Military Institute.

While the exercises of this department are thoroughly taught, they are not allowed to encroach upon the hours to be devoted to school and study, nor to assume such prominence as to lessen a proper attention due to the principal object of the school.

The cadet officers of the battalion are appointed by the Principals and the Commandant, and are selected from those cadets who are most studious, most soldier-like in the performance of their duties, and most exemplary in their general deportment.

The Advantages of Military Training

It is not an uncommon idea that a Military School is designed to fit young boys for army service. To be plain and frank, this aim is one of least importance, and, in fact, since the founding of the school, but few boys have ever enlisted in the regular service. We, however, endeavor to prepare our boys for the Government Academies, if desired, since graduation from one of these means a high position in the army or navy.

A true conception of a Military School can scarcely be obtained from reading a catalogue or even from hearing its merits praised by those who have had actual experience.

There is no phase of school life that does not come under the influence of military training. To learn prompt obedience, to be systematic, to be neat, to be respectful to his superior officers, to acquire greater self-reliance, are some of the chief qualities that a military training demands of a boy, and these habits are learned, not only for school, but also for life, and the beneficial results may be seen in every profession of the age.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

R. O. T. C.

The War Department has detailed a professor of Military Science and Tactics to supervise the R. O. T. C. The Academy has full Government equipment, consisting of late-model rifles, ammunition, tents, etc.

To be a member of the R. O. T. C. a cadet must be at least fourteen years of age. Membership in this organization does not in the least interfere with any academic duties nor does it entail additional military duties. It is simply the official recognition by the War Department of military work done in the preparatory schools.

Target Range

A target range on which the cadets shoot the regulation army course has been constructed in the rear of the school grounds. The range is 600 yards long and the course includes shooting at 200, 300, 500, and 600 yards at slow and rapid fire. All shooting is done under constant supervision and every precaution for safety is taken.

Wireless Telegraphy

A radio station has been established at the school in charge of several cadets who are licensed Government operators. Messages are received daily from a radius of 2,000 miles and messages are sent up to 500 miles. Through the radio service the school receives twice daily the official time from Arlington, Va. Cadets having previous experience in wireless telegraphy are allowed to use the apparatus.

Uniforms

The uniforms are made of excellent cloth by a leading Military Supply House, and they should be considered in the light of economy, as they wear better and present a more handsome appearance than the ordinary citizen's clothes, because they are strictly tailor-made and of the best quality.

"B" COMPANY

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

The cloth is obtained from the celebrated Charlottesville Woolen Mills.

The Military overcoat will be required. This coat can not be considered an additional expense, as it will suffice for three or four years. The cost of the Military overcoat will be found under "Expenses."

Course of Study

A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.

—POPE.

Our aim is to form classes to suit the boys, we have no regular course which a boy must pursue whether he is prepared or not. Should a student enter a class and find it too difficult, or if, in our judgment, he has been classified too high, we place him in one of lower grade. This is of decided benefit to the backward and those who have not had proper preparation, while those students of great ambition are not held back, as there is always a class above them which they may enter. Our system is entirely elective, and a cadet may pursue any of the following subjects, of which there must be five:

- 1—English (including Literature, Composition and Orthography)
- 2—Ancient and Modern History
- 3—Latin
- 4—French
- 5—Spanish
- 6—German
- 7—Mathematics
- 8—Physics
- 9—Physical Geography
- 10—Civics
- 11—Music
- 12—Military Tactics

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

English

It is a frequent complaint that in our high schools too much attention is paid to the study of Ancient Languages and too little to the English, and that pupils are too often sent from their doors well drilled in Latin and Greek and having an indifferent acquaintance with the mother tongue.

Here English is made the principal study, and is carried through the entire course. Outside reading is assigned as a part of the regular work, for too often boys leave the preparatory school with little or no knowledge of the English Classics. Aside from the practical benefits of this course, the boy becomes familiar with many quotations and extracts that may be heard in the society of educated and well-informed people, and, furthermore, he is able to converse intelligently on the subject of English authors.

Again, good reading broadens the field of thought, stimulates the desire to emulate successful men, arouses the latent force to greater activity, and furnishes the mind with "material for reflection."

Realizing fully how a boy is handicapped who uses "bad grammar," no effort is spared to correct this, and at all times, whether in the schoolroom or on the playground, the teachers, in a kindly manner, call the boy's attention to his incorrect speech, and by this method of "keeping continually at it," the boy soon becomes familiar with the proper forms of expression.

Orthography

Believing that no branch of education is more necessary than correct spelling, no pupil is excused from the study of orthography, and daily recitations in it are required from the entire school, divided into classes with reference to stage of advancement.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Ancient Languages

In this department a perfect knowledge of forms is insisted upon, and pupils are thoroughly grounded in the inflections. They are then instructed in syntax, and translate the authors in the order of their difficulty. Decided prominence is given to rendering English into Latin, and daily exercises are required.

Modern Languages

We encourage our boys to pursue one or more of the Modern Languages. Our aim is to give them a good reading knowledge of authors of moderate difficulty and the common idiomatic expressions, as well as to ground thoroughly the fundamental principles. Thus equipped, our boys find no particular effort necessary to pass the entrance examinations of our colleges and universities.

Mathematics

Realizing the importance of this branch of study, no student will be excused from taking some form of this subject. We endeavor to prepare our boys to enter all the leading colleges, as well as to equip them with a good, practical, working knowledge of arithmetic and algebra.

History

We consider history an important item of a liberal education, and, while requiring this subject in the lower classes, we heartily encourage a more advanced course of history for the Senior work. It lays the foundation for a more careful pursuit of facts in after years.

Natural Science

The course is necessarily a limited one, as no previous preparation is contemplated for entrance upon these studies in our colleges and universities, and both time and sufficient apparatus are wanting in most of our preparatory schools for any great or decided advancement in this branch of learning. A laboratory equipped with apparatus and reagents sufficient to illustrate an academic course enables us to give considerable practical instruction in physics and chemistry.

Music

Owing to the constant demand for instruction in music, arrangements will be made whereby cadets will be able to receive instruction on the piano, guitar, mandolin and violin.

This course is extra, as will be seen in school expenses. Rates will be sent on application.

Examinations

Two general examinations, which all the students are required to stand, are held during the session in each class—one at the close of each term. These examinations are conducted principally in writing, and to students whose answers aggregate eighty-five per cent of the questions propounded a certificate of distinction will be publicly awarded at the closing exercises of the school.

Note.—Graduation requirements will be found on page 24.

Academic Year 1921-'22

HIS session will commence Wednesday, the 21st day of September, 1921, and will close the 7th day of the following June, 1922.

Pupils are received at any time, and after the first month are charged pro rata from day of entrance. Cadets leaving before the close of the session will be charged full rates, unless by previous special arrangements, or from serious and protracted sickness. This rule is strictly adhered to.

Expenses

School bill (board, furnished room, heat, lights, laundry, use of arms, and instruction in all branches taught in the school)	$600.00
Books and stationery, according to advancement.....	$15.00 to 20.00
Uniforms, equipment, etc. (approximated).....	145.00
(A portion of the uniforms will suffice for two or more years. The uniform bill is largely controlled by the care the cadets take of their clothing.)
Overcoat	33.00
Pew rent	2.00
Music	Rates will be furnished on application.

The school bill is payable $400.00 at entrance and $200.00 on the 11th of February, 1922. A deposit of $200.00 to cover uniforms, overcoat, shirts, books, stationery, and pew rent must be made on entrance.

Total deposit required on entrance is $600.00.

When cadets enter after the Christmas holidays, the school bill charges from January 4th to the close of the session are $400.00. The extra charges for uniforms, books, etc., for the same time is about $160.00. This charge, of course, depends upon the needs of the cadets.

Make all checks payable to Augusta Military Academy.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Cadets withdrawing from the school at Christmas will forfeit the entrance deposit of $400.00. A refund will be made of the unused portion of the deposit for uniforms and books.

Nearly all the cadets subscribe to the following student organizations: Y. M. C. A., $1.00; school paper, $1.00; Athletic Association, $5.00. This fee entitles each member to free admission to all contests during the year and also to free use of all athletic supplies.

Any excess remaining from the deposit for uniforms and books will be refunded at close of session.

ONE OF THE SHOWER ROOMS

Remarks

INJURY to property of the Academy by a cadet is repaired at his expense, but the cost of repairs is assessed equally upon the members of the corps if the perpetrator be unknown.

The arms used by the cadets are Springfield rifles of modern pattern.

Parents should send their sons to school with teeth in good order that dentists may not be visited in term time.

Frequently cadets are allowed too much money for useless expenditure. Fifty cents a week is the greatest amount any cadet should spend for unnecessary things, and any allowance above that tends to inculcate extravagance and self-indulgence. See "School Bank" elsewhere.

No cadet will be retained in the Academy whose influence over his associates is believed to be bad, and we desire no one to enter who does not intend to be a gentleman, and who will be an unfit associate for good boys.

No "hazing" is allowed, as it is condemned by the sentiment and tradition of the school, and each cadet is pledged to this on entrance.

Cadets are free to write home at any time. If they make complaint, or report any wrong practiced by others, we particularly desire parents to inform us at once, that the evil may be remedied, if any exists.

The Academy ranks high in regard to the honor system. All examinations, class recitations, permits, etc., are considered in the light of a boy's honor, and the prevailing sentiment is to treat with scorn a boy who will not tell the truth. This honor system is controlled to a large extent by the cadets and not by the school authorities.

The teachers are always in charge of the dining-hall, and constant attention is paid to etiquette at the tables, as, frequently, boys in large numbers are apt to become negligent.

The Academy requests that no "boxes" be sent from home except during the holidays. The cadets are supplied with an abundance of well-prepared food, and "boxes" are not only unnecessary, but also detrimental to the physical condition of the boy.

Each room is inspected several times daily by the officers in charge in order that habits of neatness and system may be inculcated.

Should a case arise when it becomes necessary to dismiss a cadet for breach of regulations and conduct, no part of his tuition fees will be refunded. This is not the case, however, when a cadet is allowed to withdraw on account of sickness.

Experience of many years and observation have proven to us that a preparatory school, where the average age is sixteen, or seventeen, necessarily should be limited in numbers. Regardless of facilities, that personal attention and safe influence can not be assured when so many young boys are brought together under one roof. We now have enrolled for the ensuing session a large per cent of last year's cadets and quite a number of new boys, therefore, we would appreciate early correspondence.

We do not claim to be the cheapest school, nor have we exorbitant fees. A school that offers to take your son for a very cheap figure must necessarily give in proportion; for experienced and college-bred men demand high salaries, and conveniences and equipment require a large expenditure of funds, which a school with such low rates can not afford.

Regulations

REGULATIONS covering all points of discipline and conduct are posted in each room, and, from time to time, as circumstances may require, new orders are issued.

Following are some of the things from which cadets of the Augusta Military Academy are required to abstain:

Leaving school premises except as permitted by the regulations.

The use of intoxicants or having them in possession. Any cadet violating this rule will be dismissed at once.

Gambling and betting.

The use of profane or obscene language.

The reading or possession of improper literature.

Contracting debts without permission.

Injury to property, no matter whose.

Possession or use of cards, dice, etc.

Cigarette smoking. Cadets will be allowed to smoke a pipe at certain hours, if they have the parents' permission.

On the second offense of cigarette smoking, a cadet will be expelled.

The possession of firearms.

Cadet quarters are subject to inspection at all times, and the orderly is responsible for their condition and contents.

Cadets are not only required to abstain from all vicious, immoral, and irregular conduct, but it is enjoined upon them to conduct themselves upon every occasion with the propriety and decorum which characterize the society of gentlemen.

Testimonials and References

University of Virginia.

Mr. Thomas J. Roller is a distinguished graduate in the school of Latin of this University. I regard him as a first-class Latinist. After graduating in the school, he pursued the course in Post-Graduate Latin with great success. He is a young gentleman of fine character, of excellent abilities and well qualified to teach Latin in any position.

W. E. PETERS,
Professor of Latin (Emeritus).

Of Mr. Roller, who completed my Spanish Course, it gives me pleasure to state that I have found him to be a diligent student and a gentleman.

I believe Mr. Roller will succeed in whatever he undertakes. Any association will be benefited by his presence.

RICHARD H. WILSON,
Professor of Romanic Languages.

Virginia Military Institute.

I am glad to be able to speak in terms of commendation and praise of Mr. C. S. Roller, Jr., a distinguished graduate of this school, both as a student under me and as a man.

Mr. Roller was under my guidance and instruction for two years of his course here, and I had ample opportunity of forming what I believe is a correct judgment about his intellectual and personal qualities, and I considered him then, and do now consider him, a man of good, strong sense, of a well disciplined mind, of high moral perception and force, and of firm and steady will. His standing here as a student is indicative of his scholarship, his position among his fellow-cadets as a leader in the various directions of undergraduate activities testifies to the possession of high qualities of mind and spirit, and mark him as one well fitted to discharge the duties he has taken upon himself, to be the director and guide and instructor of youth.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) HUNTER PENDLETON,
Professor of Chemistry.

University of Virginia.

Mr. T. J. Roller completed successfully the M. A. German Course under Professor Perkins at this institution, some years ago, and, returning to the

MAIN STUDY HALL

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

University, pursued a post-graduate course in Middle High and Early Modern German under me for one year. In this course he evinced maturity of purpose, intelligence, and industry, finishing the three examinations with credit to himself, and greatly enlarging his knowledge of comparative German Grammar, the history of the language, and literary monuments of the Middle Ages.

Mr. Roller is thus exceptionally well qualified to teach German, having had the unusual advantage of several full courses under different professors at our leading Southern University, and of graduate work of his own choice in the subject last year.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE

To Whom It May Concern:

Mr. Chas. S. Roller, Jr., was graduated with distinction from the Virginia Military Institute in June, 1901. He was offered the position of Assistant Professor of Mathematics and Tactical Officer in the Institute, which he declined. He has taught continually since he graduated. I regard him as unusually well qualified for the duties of instructor and Military Commandant of a preparatory school. His make-up is such that he gets excellent results in whatever he may undertake to do.

Very respectfully,

SCOTT SHIPP,
Superintendent of V. M. I.

To Whom It May Concern:

By reason of an acquaintance during the last seven years with Captain Charles S. Roller, Jr., I feel competent to say that his record as a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute, where he was graduated with distinction in 1901, his successful experience since that time as Commandant of Augusta Military Academy, and his general aptitude and genuine enthusiasm in training those under his care, qualify him particularly well for the position he now fills.

He is a Christian gentleman, with the power to a marked degree for exerting the best sort of influence and for winning the true regard and respect of those in any way associated with him.

Very respectfully,

(Captain) H. E. HYATT,
Post Adjutant, V. M. I.

What Patrons and Others Say of the Augusta Military Academy

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Fort Defiance, Va., May 14, 1921.

From Rev. John B. Gordon, Pastor Augusta Stone Church.

My vocation as a minister in the Augusta Stone Church affords me each Sunday a fine opportunity to judge the general moral and spiritual tone of the Augusta Military Academy. I find the cadets uniformly responsive and appreciative to the appeals of the Christian faith, which indicates manly living and noble ideals held before them the other six days of the week.

I can cordially commend and recommend the school as one in which parents will find minimum temptations, solid work, and effective discipline.

Augusta Military Academy,
Fort Defiance, Va.

Sirs:—It has been my good fortune to have known of your Academy for a great many years; to have seen it in active operation, and to have had under my instruction at this institution young men prepared by you. I have sent a number of young men to you in the years that are past, and shall continue to do so in the years that are to come. I can most cordially commend your work and shall be pleased to have you make use of this testimonial as you may deem proper.

Very truly yours,

Col. T. J. Roller.

My dear Colonel Roller:—Since visiting Wendell, I do so want to tell you again how pleased I am with his development—not only into a more accurate, attentive student, which, unfortunately, he was not up to this time—but also in relation to his carriage and general physical condition. He was such a great, fine, healthy boy, that I did want him to appear less careless and more alive to general appearances. He enjoyed with me my facetious remarks about his changed opinions on these matters, and, altogether, my visit gave me much pleasure.

With best wishes for yourself and the school.

Very truly yours,

(MRS.) VIRGINIA MORAN PURCELL.

My dear Sir:—Mrs. Ray and myself wish you to know how grateful we feel towards your school for the very good care you have taken of our boy, Chambers. He returns to you in a few days, and the satisfaction of knowing that he is under the supervision of your high-toned gentlemen is very pleasing to us.

He (Chambers) and ourselves are always ready to coöperate with you in every way.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours respectfully,

DR. A. C. RAY.

My dear Sir:—I have just received the monthly report of my son, and feel it obligatory to express my appreciation of such marked improvement. I have felt perfectly assured since my visit to your school that I had left him in good hands. Although the change was great and the discipline hard, he has never complained. What I appreciate most of all is in one of his letters to me he said he liked it there "because you treated him like a man"; and I have every confidence that he will grow into a man, under your guidance, that I shall have every reason to be proud of.

With kindest regards to your brother, I am,

Gratefully yours,

Laredo, Texas, May 12, 1921.

My dear Major Roller:—After having just returned from a visit to your school, I can not refrain from asking the privilege of writing a word of commendation to you for the methods used and the high ideals noticed by me while there.

I was especially impressed with the splendid type of boys attending, and of the principles which were being instilled into them.

It was with regret that I left before meeting all of Jack's instructors, but I desire to express to both yourself and Colonel Roller, as well as the corps of instructors, my thanks for Jack's progress generally, particularly am I gratified with his grades in English and Mathematics.

With kindest regards, and trusting that I may again have the pleasure of spending a few days at the Academy during my son's stay there, I am, with the wish that I had several sons, instead of one, to place with you for training,

Most sincerely,

My dear Sir:—As you know our son, William, is completing his second year at Augusta. Mr. Turley and I both feel greatly pleased with your school and the wonderful work being done there with the many young men you have under your guidance.

It was my good fortune recently again to visit Fort Defiance and have an opportunity to observe the daily routine life of the students. Every good thing I had heard of the Academy was fully confirmed by personal investigation, and I came away satisfied that the destinies of our boy could not be in better hands. Especially was I impressed with the religious and moral atmosphere, at all times surrounding the boys' activities.

I cheerfully recommend A. M. A. in every way.

Very respectfully yours,

MRS. J. C. TURLEY.

Dear Sir:—After my recent visit to Augusta Military Academy, it gives me great pleasure to express to you how more than satisfied both Mr. Taylor and I are that our son, Finley, is under your care. The moral, physical and mental instruction is as near ideal for a boy during a very important period of his development as it seems possible to be, to say nothing of the healthful and beautiful country surrounding the school.

Finley has advised that his younger brother be sent to "Roller's" as soon as he is old enough, and I assure you that his parents agree with him.

Dear Colonel:—Several years ago, Mrs. Eldon and I concluded to send our son to a good Military School, and, together, we visited many of the best-known and equipped establishments of the kind in the country, and, finally, selected your Institution, the "Augusta Military Academy." I am glad to say to you or to any one that may wish to know, that we have never regretted our choice.

My second son, who is now going through your School, speaks in the highest terms of the excellent and courteous treatment always accorded him. So far as the mental and physical development is concerned, I myself am positive that there is not a school in the country equal to yours for developing the young man, mentally and physically.

Mrs. Eldon and I feel we owe it to your school and to yourself to send you these few lines, testifying to our satisfaction.

Respectfully yours,

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

Tarboro, N. C., March 17, 1917.

Col. T. J. Roller,
Fort Defiance, Va.

Dear Colonel Roller:—Having five boys to educate, I felt that it was of importance to me and to them to select a good preparatory school, so I made quite an exhaustive investigation of these schools before selecting one.

My first trip to Augusta Military Academy impressed upon me that all the good reports that I had had from former patrons were true, so I sent my oldest boy to you. A visit to him during his first term convinced me further that it was an ideal school for a young boy, and I decided to send you my second son a year earlier than I had intended to, and I have three other boys you can expect when they arrive at the proper age.

The progress of my boys, not only in their studies, but in character and physical development, has further confirmed my judgment in selecting your school for them.

I have made a number of visits to your school since, have been in your home, have associated with your teachers, and mingled with the student body, and I have no hesitancy in recommending to any one Roller's school as a place for a boy.

You not only give them the advantages of thorough training in their studies, but you help build their character along the right lines and improve their physical being, making upright, clean, self-reliant, self-respecting boys. Any father or mother can feel that his or her boy has the right surroundings and environments at A. M. A.

My kindest regards to every one.

Very sincerely,

The Augusta Military Academy in four years prepared me successfully to enter as a state student by examination the University of Virginia. Grateful for the excellent service rendered me, I had three of my brothers, two of my nephews, and many of my students to take their preliminary training in this school. My son, who is now enrolled as a student, is receiving the best of attention and is making satisfactory progress. The above is sufficient evidence of my estimate of the school.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

RACINE AUTO TIRE COMPANY

Col. T. J. Roller,
Augusta Military Academy,
Fort Defiance, Va.

Dear Colonel Roller:—I had hoped to attend A. M. A. Commencement, as this is our son's finishing year, but business matters will prevent my doing so.

I wanted to tell you how much Mrs. Smith and I appreciate the interest you have taken in Harold, and what A. M. A. has done for him in the four years he has attended. However, I am impressed with the personal interest you and your associates seem to take in each boy, which, to me, is very remarkable and of great value.

Realizing what environment means to a boy leaving home influences while young, we made a careful investigation of schools before selecting A. M. A., confining our investigation to Military Schools.

We were largely influenced in our decision by our observation of boys who had attended A. M. A.

The fact that the school was not located in a town appealed to us very strongly.

Your limiting the number of pupils to about three hundred is, I think, very wise, as our experience has indicated that you are able to give personal attention and encouragement to the individual boy, which would be impossible with a larger school.

A. M. A. is the one school we found where we felt that we would be perfectly satisfied to have our boy at his age go out from under our own influence, and the results have fully borne out our opinions.

It is a great privilege to be in a position to guide and mould the boy, and I hope that you and your associates and the Augusta Military Academy may continue to meet with the success which you so fully merit.

Yours very sincerely,

H. O. SMITH.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

The selection of Augusta Military Academy, from among several other schools under consideration, as the best place to send my boy, has proven a wise choice, and I expect to return him next year. As a further proof of my confidence in your school, wish to add that I have two younger sons, whom I expect to send there when they reach the proper age.

Augusta Military Academy,
Fort Defiance, Va.

Dear Colonel Roller:—My visit to Augusta Military Academy gave me an additional opportunity to appraise your splendid institution.

It is a great comfort to feel that my son is under the guidance, control, and development of yourself and Major Roller.

The location of your school is ideal—high and healthful and sufficiently sequestered to deliver the boys from the temptation incident to an envired city life, and yet easily and comfortably accessible.

Aside, however, from your ideal location and commodious plant, I noted and was especially pleased with the atmosphere of the place, flowing from the high type and splendid deportment of the student body, which, next to the exalted character, wise counsel, and guiding discipline of the Principals of such an institution, is its most valuable asset in the formative period of a boy's life.

My son is very much delighted with his surroundings, and devoted to you and the Major, and his reports continue most gratifying.

I shall take every proper occasion to commend your school as most worthy the patronage of those who are seeking to serve the best educational interest and general welfare of their boys.

Yours very truly,

HAMILTON McWHORTER.

On several occasions I have visited your school, and it certainly is ideally located and arranged for the training of a young man, physically and mentally. The personnel is of a very high standard indeed, and I unhesitatingly recommend Augusta Military Academy.

My dear Colonel:—Acknowledging your favor of the 13th, I am pleased to have this opportunity of expressing my entire satisfaction with the result of my son's work at your school, both from an educational and physical standpoint.

It has been my pleasure to visit the boys at the school a number of times during the past three years, and I have always been impressed by the close coöperation that existed between yourself and the Major with the entire school. Such team work is bound to bring results, and it is with a great deal of pleasure that I recommend your school for any boy.

Wishing you continued success, I am,

Gentlemen:—It affords me great pleasure to heartily endorse your excellent school. Having visited the academy twice since last fall, I feel that I can make this statement without any mental reservation. John has been very happy at A. M. A., and has made excellent progress in his studies. He was barely fourteen when he entered, and weighed 107 pounds; he now weighs 123 pounds, which I think speaks for the climate and the good care the boys are given.

Yours very truly,

My dear Sir:—On my return from the South a few days since, I took a run down to Augusta to see the boy and spent the day. As I did not see you while there, I take this opportunity of writing a line to say that if a word of praise can encourage and help the good work at Augusta along, you certainly have it from me. I have long been impressed with the idea that there is no place like a good Military Academy for young boys, and in Augusta I find a model school of that type. The magnificent new barracks and the grounds thereabout are equal to anything of its kind in the country, and furnish every facility for healthful study, as well as recreation. LaTelle has done exceedingly well; has gained 20 pounds in weight in 8 months, has made rapid progress in his studies, and never been sick or homesick for a moment.

Assuring you of my best wishes for the success of the school, I beg to remain

My dear Colonel:—It affords us a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction to write and tell you that Mrs. Spohn and I have been greatly pleased with our son's first year at A. M. A.

Up to the time we entered Clay he had never been very far away from home, and, naturally, we felt a bit concerned about him—he being more than three thousand miles away. However, after his mother and I visited the academy last summer we returned home feeling quite at ease. We met and talked with you, Major Roller, and others, and want to say that our confidence in the faculty is fully warranted.

We know Clay is progressing, he likes the work, his letters are indicative of his being very happy, and has not been homesick.

The general conditions are all that can be desired, and these attributes speak for themselves.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY

I know it must be very gratifying to you and your associates to hear the many good things said about the school, but I believe in giving full credit for services rendered.

For parents to assign or attach their sons to an academy, there is no gainsaying the fact a tremendous amount of responsibility rests on the school, and it has at that tender age everything to do with the moulding of the boys into proper manhood.

I want to thank you again for the personal and individual attention given our boy in his studies, and wishing you and A. M. A. continued success, I am,

Sincerely yours,

JOHN H. SPOHN.

We believe they are going to show a very profitable year, both in their studies and military work.

I wish to thank you, the Major, and their teachers for the kindly interest shown to each of them.

enjoyed your hospitality, have felt that we made no mistake in selecting your school for our boy.

The excellent progress made by Grayson has more than justified the testimonials of friends regarding your school.

I was profoundly impressed by the thorough understanding of what is needed by the growing boy, on the part of yourself, your brother, and your faculty, and I am gratified, indeed, to observe many evidences of the success of the character-building efforts of your academy.

In short, Colonel, I have become one of the strongest of "Roller" enthusiasts, and if, at any time, an occasion arises where a personal interview is convenient to a prospective patron, I should be more than glad to have you refer them to me.

My second son, Ralph, will be sent to you as soon as he reaches the necessary age.

Now, as stated above, we were well pleased with the first impression of your school, but since our boy has been with you now for several months we can clearly see by the magnificent progress that he has made in his studies and his physical development that we have not only not made a mistake in the selection of our school for this boy, but we feel that we have sent him to the school that has really done more for him than any other school could have.

I am highly pleased, Colonel, with you and everything in connection with your good school, and I have a young son, now ten years old, who will sooner or later be a student of Augusta Military Academy.

Dear Colonel:—I have just had a letter from my son, Perry Hunter, a student in your school, and he is delighted with his surroundings, and says he has everything to make him happy and contented, and that he is ready to put in a good year's work.

It does me good to know that he is pleased, and I am writing to say that I am in hearty accord with you and your institution, and I would not ask any courtesy at your hands, only that my son is treated just as you will treat all your boys.

I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you some time during the school year, and I assure you that it would be a pleasure for us to have you in our home, if you are ever in our East Tennessee.

Dear Colonel:—Mrs. Mebane and I have always felt, since our first visit to your school, that Edward was in good hands and under the proper influence, and that the moral, physical, and mental instruction was good. We consider the location and healthful surroundings ideal. Edward has always been happy there, and speaks in the highest terms of you and your brother and the entire school, and his progress is very gratifying to us. I think the personal interest you and your brother take in all the boys has a great deal to do with your success and the splendid discipline you have there. I have another boy which you can expect when he arrives at the proper age.

Mrs. Mebane and I wish to take this opportunity to thank both you and your brother for the courtesies shown us on our visits to your school, and to assure you of our entire satisfaction with Edward's progress, and it will always be a pleasure to recommend your institution to any one who has boys to educate.

My dear Col. Roller:—I am gratified and greatly encouraged to note that Colin's last reports show much improvement. While we have from the start been pleased with his physical development, due to A. M. A. training and the ideal location and surroundings for boys, we were for a time discouraged with the progress made in his studies, although we appreciated the fact that it would be quite a proposition to get Colin out of the rut of indifference and carelessness he had gotten into before his entrance at the Academy.

I trust that his future reports will show still better results, and that A. M. A. will continue to maintain the high standard it now has the honor of holding.

Thanking you for the pleasant visits we have had at the Academy, and with kind regards and best wishes to you and those of the faculty I have had the pleasure of meeting, I am,

My dear Colonel:—It affords me a great deal of pleasure to have the opportunity of expressing my appreciation of your school for what it has actually meant to our son, Spencer.

My friend, Mr. Fehr, and I visited similar academies before deciding upon A. M. A. for our boys. We were especially impressed with the ideal healthful and picturesque location, away from city temptation and attraction; with the personal touch the boys received from you and your staff, the quality and effect, of which is not surpassed anywhere. After several visits to your school, we have repeatedly expressed our satisfaction, and felt that we were amply repaid for our special tour of investigation.

When our son returned for his Christmas vacation (after three months), we found he had greatly developed physically, and appeared to be brighter and more alert. Both his mother and I are sorry that we did not know about your school at least a year sooner.

I never fail to recommend your school to my friends whenever the opportunity affords, and wish you continued success.

My dear Colonel Roller:—It was only after careful inquiry and consideration that I entered Murray at the Augusta Military Academy. He is now finishing his second year, and I have had no cause to regret my selection of a school. On the contrary, my several visits to the school and Murray's progress mentally and physically have convinced me that it is just the place for the boy of fourteen or over. Its location is ideal; its equipment first class, and I was very much impressed with the close personal attention given to the boys by the principals and faculty.

My dear Col. Roller:—During the four years my son has attended your school, I have visited him a number of times, and have had an exceptional opportunity to observe intimately your methods and scope of work.

I know of no other school so ideally located—away from all towns of whatever size, and yet near enough, on a beautiful valley pike for whatever advantages and conveniences the towns have to offer.

You have succeeded most admirably in handling some three hundred boys and young men on the honor system—a system actually based on honor, individually, and collectively.

You have established regulations and rules, and penalties for violations, all of which are fixed and do not change with the winds or the moods of the masters.

The conduct of your cadets, both at the school and abroad, show conclusively that you not only exercise discretion in the selection of applicants, but that culture, politeness, and good manners are a part of the training.

I consider myself most fortunate in the selection of your school for my son, and I have unqualifiedly recommended it to a great many of my friends who are interested.
